

Canadian Registry of Professional Retirement Planners

The Professional Retirement Planner (PRP) designation assures the public that the bearer has met, and maintains, a certain level of education, experience, commitment to a holistic approach to retirement planning, and an adherence to a Code of Ethics. Maintaining the designation requires a commitment to on-going professional development as well as regular involvement in our organization.

Part of the process of attaining the designation is attendance at the Orientation Workshop.

A one-day workshop will be held in Toronto on Thursday, September 30, 2010.
The cost for the workshop, on-line assignment and application form is $393.75 (incl. HST)

The location of the workshop is
Hyatt Regency Hotel, 370 King St. W., Toronto

Each participant will download an introductory webinar from Av Lieberman of RECI. There will be a case study that will be done independently before or after the course.

Other topics covered include: The use of a Disciplined Interview Process, The Art of the Discovery Interview, The Learning Curve, Ethics, PRP – The Designation, and The Profession.
